Stephen Jacobs

Vice President of Sales and Marketing

Stephen Jacobs has over 22 years experience working in senior management and executive level positions at both established companies and start-up ventures in the healthcare industry. His career includes sales, sales management and business development assignments with three Fortune 100 companies, including Abbott Laboratories and two companies representing the biotech and orthopedic implant divisions of Johnson & Johnson. With J&J, he led teams that launched products for treating immune mediated inflammatory diseases and degenerative and deformative spine conditions.

Most recently he served as VP of Sales for Checkpoint Surgical (Checkpoint® Stimulator/Locator), a start-up medical device company, during its initial commercial phase. Steve served on the senior management team leading the effort to introduce their novel surgical device to orthopedic, plastics, ENT, and neurosurgeons.

Mr. Jacobs graduated magna cum laude from Franklin Pierce College with a BS in Biological Sciences.
